"The stars incline, but do not compel."

Horoscope

Friday, October 2, 1914.
This is rather a favorable day, but business of importance should not be transacted early in the morning. The Sun and Venus rule strongly for good after noon. Uranus is mildly adverse.

It is read as a fairly fortunate time for initiative in business affairs. Conditions are promising for merchants who seek to establish new enterprises. Under this sign capital should be less difficult to obtain than under less favorable aspects of the Sun.

The way is supposed to be particularly fortunate for political candidates and all who seek the sanction or co-operation of the public.

Women should benefit from this astral government, which is interpreted as stimulating to their highest aspirations. It is promising for whatever they do for the uplifting of humanity.

It is predicted, however, that those who have selfish ambitions will taste disappointment. In the suffrage States the indications for the success of women candidates are not favorable.

This should be a lucky day for weddings or for whatever has to do with romance.

Theaters are subject to an auspicious aspect today, and again, one or two extraordinary successes among new plays are prophesied.

Modistes, milliners, clothiers and all who provide raiment for women should profit under this configuration. They will reap much after early indications of loss.

Among those who should profit by today's rule of the stars are proprietors of restaurants, dealers in fine foodstuffs, confectioners and florists.

The government is held to be helpful to "desires of honor and preferment," rulers of every sort, government employees, high officials of the church, and especially to mayors of large cities.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have business and financial anxieties during the coming year, but they should be happy in all domestic affairs.

Children born on this day have lucky stars to guide them. They may be rather too carefree and pleasure-loving, but they probably will enjoy life. Girls have the omen of happy marriage. (Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

FASHION NOTES.

Ostrich at Hands and Throat.
One of the alluring trimmings of the new season is ostrich, and one of the most alluring ways of using it is at the hands and throat of a silk or satin frock. One in old gold chamoisee of soft color and texture has brown ostrich plumes outlining the round neck and finishing the very long sleeves.

Selvages Still Apparent.
When the dressmakers first began to leave selvage edges exposed at the bottom of skirts and draperies, and at any conceivable point on the bodice, there were exclamations of amazement. But the freedom that this use allows, the grace and suppleness it gives to the fabrics, have more than justified it. It is still used in the same way in the new models.

A big black sailor shape is trimmed with a band of ostrich flat around the edge of the brim, on top, and on the under side of the brim a big pink rose, edged with ostrich plumes.

Blue and Black Tulle.
A black satin evening gown has very attractive sleeves. There are deep blue tulle foundation sleeves, that reach over the hands, and over these shirred sleeves, equally long, of black tulle.

Broadcloth and Satin.
Broadcloth and satin are much combined. For instance, there will be a skirt of broadcloth with a bodice of satin. Plaid broadcloth is also used. But it is plaid in dull, deep colors. These colors, which are employed in the season's plaids and stripes, are infinitely more pleasing than the vivid, garnish colors used last year.

Patch Pockets.

On some of the new skirts that are full at the hips patch pockets are employed to control this fullness. On a gray velvet frock with a pleated peplum big pockets of satin are used on the hips. Sometimes these pockets are embroidered.

The Furs.

Beaver, fish, fox of various sorts, monkey, kolinsky, broadtail—all these furs are employed by the famous designers. Some of them, too, are openly using goat. Goat, by the way, is one of the substitutes, perhaps the only one, for monkey fur, which has grown rather scarce since it became popular.

THE CLASSIFYING SLEEVE.

By their sleeves you may know them. That has been true of the flocks of today.

For several years sleeves have not been of special importance. Most of them have been cut on kimono lines and so they were no sleeves at all, and perhaps that is why they were not important. But this year we have a cut-and-dried sleeve to deal with again.

To be sure, the new evening gowns have no sleeves. But this absence of sleeves is as characteristic of the style as any other sleeve detail would be. The new evening bodices are cut in two points that clasp on the shoulder under a jeweled buckle or clasp or under an artificial flower, or else they are cut off square and held over the shoulders with jeweled bands or strands of artificial flowers.

But in the day time the sleeve is a regulation sleeve, set into a regulation armhole. And it is long and rather snug and usually reaches well over the hand. Sometimes a bishop sleeve is used—one full above the wrist, gathered into a little wristband. Sometimes, too, of course, the kimono arrangement of the bodice is followed. It has been brought so nearly to perfection that it is too hard to discard it entirely. For it is both comfortable and attractive in appearance.

SAVORY TOMATOES.

Tomato Ramikins.—Cut some ripe tomatoes of medium size in half. Remove the seeds and the hard portion from the middle and place fruit on a sieve to drain for about half an hour. Put a tablespoonful of soft breadcrumbs into a small saucepan, pour in just enough milk to cover and let it cook very gently, stirring frequently until a stiff paste is formed. Then turn the paste into a basin, add a tablespoonful of butter and the yokes of two eggs, beating one into the ingredients before adding the second. When the eggs are mixed, stir in three tablespoonfuls of grated cheese and season with celery salt, pepper and a little grated nutmeg. Add a pinch of salt to the white of the eggs and whisk them to a very stiff froth. Fill the hollow pieces of tomato as expeditiously as possible with the cheese mixture. Place them at once on a well-buttered tin and cook them in a quick oven until the macaroni is evenly browned, which should take about a quarter of an hour. Half the above quantity would be sufficient if only six small portions of tomato were to be filled.

Macaroni with Tomatoes.—Break in short lengths macaroni enough to fill a large coffee cup, and dash into it of boiling water which is well salted. Cook until tender, and very often at first to keep from sticking to the bottom of the pot. When cooked, drain off all the liquor, put the macaroni into a porcelain kettle, and add one cup of either beef or chicken stock and one cup of tomatoes which have been rubbed through a colander. Let this simmer for 20 minutes, or until the liquor is well absorbed. Add to it half a cup of grated cheese, one tablespoonful of butter, salt and red pepper to taste, and serve very hot.

Tomatoes and Cheese.—To ten medium-sized tomatoes allow half a tablespoonful of butter and a quarter of a pound of full cream cheese or Parmesan cheese. Scald the tomatoes and remove the skins. Then place them in a granite stewpan and cook for two or three hours, or until the water has evaporated. Season to taste and remove from the fire. Stir in the cheese and serve immediately.

WAR PICTURE IS SOON DESTROYED

By C. F. BERTELLI.
Paris, Sept. 30.—That unshaken optimism reigns throughout the battle front, I am convinced after a visit to the principal points, which I had the good fortune to make in company with a British staff officer.

My conversations with officers and the evidence of my eyes all go to show that the greatest battle in history, over a front of 150 miles, which has now lasted nineteen days, must eventually end in the Germans being hurled from their strong intrenchments to other defensive positions further east and northeast.

The allied troops are bubbling over with confidence. Having once signally defeated the Kaiser's legions, they are certain they can do it again. An authentic story illustrating the Kaiser's love of the spectacular was told me by an officer regarding the German attack on Nancy. The Kaiser, with a cavalry escort, was awaiting the moment of victory to make his triumphal entry into the eastern city. The guns were booming heavily and all seemed to be going well for the Germans, so the emperor sent one of his aides to order the infantry to advance with "goose step" and dispatched another aide to command a cinematograph operator to make a film of the spectacle.

Both orders were immediately obeyed, but the infantry had not progressed many yards when the French guns found the range and poured a devastating fire on them, converting the spectacular advance into a rout. Before leaving the battlefield with the cavalry, the Kaiser rushed a second command to the movie man to destroy the film.

To Put On Flesh And Increase Weight

A Physician's Advice.
Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of good food fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very little, and are gaining all the time. It's all a matter of the nature of the food.

"Thin folks stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stuffed won't help them. A doctor can't help them. They must gain a single 'stay there' pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just pass through them and their bodies are left as waste. What such people need is something that will prepare the body to absorb the food and their blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something, too, that will multiply every day, and increase and increase their blood's carrying power."

For such a condition I always recommend Sargol, not as some believe a patented drug, but as a scientific combination of all of the most effective and powerful flesh building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet wonderful in its effect. A single tablet eaten with each meal often has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by A. R. McIntyre Drug Store and other good druggists everywhere on a guarantee of weight increase or money back.—Advertisement.

AUSTRIANS ARE CLAIMING MUCH

Vienna, via Amsterdam and London, Sept. 30, 11 p. m.—Archduke Frederick of Austria, commander in chief of the Austrian army, today issued the following army order:

"The situation of the Germans and Austrians is favorable. The Russian offensive is beginning to break down. We, with the German troops, shall beat against the enemy already beaten at Krasnik, Zamosa (both towns of Russian Poland), Insternburg and Tannenburk (the last two places named are in East Prussia).

"The German main army, without hindrance, has penetrated deep into France, where a new and great victory is imminent.

"In the Balkan theater we are fighting in the enemy's territory. The Serbian resistance is beginning to weaken."

"Internal dissatisfaction, insurrections and lack of food threaten our enemy in the rear, while the dual monarchy and Germany are united and have full confidence of fighting out to the end this war which was forced upon us."

This is the truth about the situation. This proclamation must be made known to all officers and men in their respective mother tongues. (Signed) ARCHDUKE FREDERICK.

GERMANS REPULSED.

London, Sept. 30, 10:07 p. m.—The fighting along the East Prussian frontier in which the Russians have been successful in extending their front 150 versts (ninety-nine miles) has resulted in the repulse of all the German attempts to force a passage of the river Niemen. This statement is contained in a dispatch from Petrograd correspondent of the Reuter Telegram company.

Berlin Without News.
Berlin, Sept. 30, 3:50 p. m., via London, 10:28 p. m.—No official news from the western battlefield has been received here since last night. The newspapers have not been informed by their correspondents regarding the great general engagement which is progressing, and the details are not known here.

Archduke Frederick of Austria, commander in chief of the Austrian forces, in army orders tonight declared that a new and great victory was imminent in the western camp of the Germans, according to dispatches received here from Vienna.

3000 GERMANS SURROUNDED IN QUARRY. HE SAYS BY W. T. HASSEY.

Near Paris, Sept. 30.—There are signs that the battle of the Aisne will not be continued much longer. The fighting on the river proceeds though not with the same vigor as during the tremendous days of last week.

The enemy, in his cleverly contrived intrenchments among the hills and in the woods, has been made extremely uncomfortable. To dislodge him would be to risk enormous sacrifices, which ought not to be made if there is any other way of turning him out.

The flint proceeding in one direction on the Aisne, which resembles Paardeburg, some 3000 or 4000 Germans find themselves in the same plight as Kronje. They are not in the river bed, as was the Boer general, but are in some quarries, a few of which are connected by tunnels.

The French troops have completely surrounded them and they are cut off from all hope of rejoining their divisions. They therefore are being shelled into surrender and the firing goes on almost continuously, day and night.

The details of the naval engagement which took place September 24 off the coast at Windau, a Russian seaport in Courland on the Baltic, have been made public. It appears that a German squadron, comprising forty ships of all classes, appeared off the harbor and was prevented from landing forces by the heavy fire from the forts. One officer and two sailors were killed and three more were drowned.

The ships withdrew but on the day following two cruisers returned, opened fire and destroyed the light-house. They killed a civilian and a number of soldiers. It was driven off again by the fire from the forts.

AUSTRIAN GENERAL ILL WITH CHOLERA

Paris, Oct. 1, 6:45 a. m.—It is officially announced by Austria-Hungary, says a dispatch from Rome to the Havas agency, that General Von Auffenberg, commanding the first Austrian army, is ill.

General Auffenberg, who was minister of war in the Austrian cabinet from September 9, 1911, until December 9, 1912, was in command of the first Austrian army when the war broke out. With the army of General Dankl he began an offensive campaign in Russian Poland and had some preliminary successes, invading Russian territory as far as Lublin.

The Austrian reverse at Lemberg, however, changed the situation in the north and for a time the position of General Auffenberg's army was said to be precarious, as the Russians threatened to cut him off. By desperate fighting he managed to retreat safely to Rzeszow. On Sept. 28, where he again formed a junction with General Dankl and the two armies retired towards Tarnow and Cracow. The last definite news received of General Von Auffenberg was that he was commanding the center of a new and extended defensive front with his base at Tarnow.

London, Oct. 1, 6:40 a. m.—It is reported from Vienna according to a home dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company that the Austrian General Von Auffenberg, former Austrian minister of war, has been obliged to relinquish his command of one of the Austrian armies because of serious illness.

A later dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Rome states that General Von Auffenberg is suffering from cholera, according to a message from Vienna.

CHAIRMAN BARNES RESIGNS POSITION

New York, Oct. 1.—The formal resignation of William Barnes as chairman of the Republican state committee marked the organization meeting here today of the new state committee. Under the new primary law the committee has a membership of 150. Its first task was to elect a chairman as successor to Mr. Barnes.

Two hours before the time set for the meeting there was but one candidate for the office, Ogden L. Mills, but, notwithstanding, indications were that he would be defeated. His opponents, it was said, were chiefly up-state Republicans, who thought the chairman should not be a resident of New York City. Mr. Mills was here.

Before the meeting it was said that should the committeemen opposing Mr. Mills' candidacy be unable to agree on a candidate of their own, District Attorney Whitman, the Republican nominee for governor, probably would be asked to name someone.

EXPERT DECLARES THE ALLIES ARE WINNING (Special War Dispatches of the International News Service and London Daily Telegraph.)

London, Oct. 1.—The London Times, in its summary of the war news, says: "The report circulated last Tuesday that the German right wing has been broken and that the allies are in pursuit is unconfirmed."

The latest official reports of the battle, now in its twentieth day, give no encouragement to the belief that such reports are anything more than anticipations of an event which may be awaited with confidence, but may yet be some time delayed. This much the Paris announcement of Wednesday did reveal. That the action on the left wing of the allies, to

LARGE BALD PATCH ON GIRL'S HEAD

Covered with Tiny Blisters. Itched and Never Rested. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

Longmont, Colo.—"About one year ago our little girl was bothered greatly with what seemed a very bad case of dandruff. Her beautiful hair got dry and dead and fell in all directions. One morning I noticed a large bald patch on her head, larger than a dollar, covered with tiny blisters surrounded with an angry red ring. They finally began running. They itched and she never rested at night."

"It was pronounced a bad case of eczema. I was given a prescription which I continued to use till my baby's head was entirely covered with scales and she had lost all her hair. She was compelled to wear a silk cap and I thought she was disfigured for life. A visitor in our neighborhood recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used the Ointment at night and gave her a shampoo in the morning with the Cuticura Soap. In less than three months my girl was entirely healed."

the north of the river Somme, continues to develop more and more to the north. In the angle of the Oise and the Aisne, at Trezy le Mont and northeast of the forest of L'Alaie, the enemy has carried out another vigorous attack, only to meet with another reverse.

Further east on the whole front from Rheims to the Meuse, matters have quieted down. In the most easterly section of this part of the front, between the Argonne and the Meuse, the allies have made slight progress, the German force which succeeded in establishing itself some days ago on the heights of the Meuse near St. Mihiel now having to fight to hold what it has gained.

Heavy engagements are reported in this quarter, where the allies have advanced at several points, notably to the east of St. Mihiel.
